This image shows a page from an old ledger or account book. The page is filled with handwritten entries in cursive script. The columns are headed with names and various numerical or date-related terms. The handwriting is in cursive and the paper shows signs of age.

Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of total catch versus the number of hauls for various fish species. The x-axis is labeled 'Number of hauls' and ranges from 0 to 10. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total catch' and ranges from 0 to 100. There are 20 data series, each represented by a different line style and marker. The series are numbered 1 through 20. The graph shows that for most species, the percentage of total catch increases with the number of hauls, with some species showing a sharp increase in the first few hauls and then leveling off. Species 1 and 2 show the highest percentages of total catch, while species 19 and 20 show the lowest.

The image shows a document page, possibly a ledger or record book, oriented vertically. It features several columns of text and numbers. The text is somewhat faint and difficult to read, but it appears to be organized in a structured format with headings and data entries. The page is a scan of a physical document, showing some texture and slight blurring.
