

White Pine Growth Under Too Much (missing)

Wintertime view of a stand of white pine (Pinus strobus) trees probably near Northville, Fulton County, N.Y. in the Adirondack Mountains on property owned either by B.N. Lobdell or James Cole. The trees probably grew from wind-blown seeds. A horse and carriage can be seen in the background. This image may have been created to record the reforestation activities of the New York State Forest, Fish, and Game Commission.
