

White Pine Growth Under Too Much (missing)

Wintertime view of a stand of white pine (Pinus strobus) trees probably near Northville, Fulton County, N.Y. in the Adirondack Mountains on the farm of a Geb Harris. The trees probably grew from wind-blown seeds. A horse and carriage can be seen in the background. This image may have been created to record the reforestation activities of the New York State Forest, Fish, and Game Commission.
