

Saratoga Battlefield

This ravine, located at the historic Saratoga Battlefield, separated American and British observation posts during the 18 day period between the first and second battles. This photograph was taken at the 151st anniversary of the first battle at Saratoga, usually referred to as the Battle at Freeman's Farm. This battle, and the following battle 18 days later, is thought to be the turning point of the war. This image was created to record the historic site activities of the New York State Conservation Department.

Identifier

NYSA_14297-87_3591

Alternate Identifier

DMS ID Number: 146778

Date

September 1928

Repository

New York State Archives

Source

New York State Archives, New York (State). Conservation Dept. Photographic prints and negatives, [ca. 1904-1949], 14297-87_3591.

Rights

This image is provided for education and research purposes. Rights may be reserved. Responsibility for securing permissions to distribute, publish, reproduce or other use rest with the user. For additional information see our Copyright and Use Statement

More From This Series

Conservation Department photographic prints and negatives

Geographic Locations

Saratoga County (is associated with)