

Saratoga Battlefield, Freeman House, the middle section of this house is believed to be the original structure that was standing at the time of the Battle of Saratoga

Two men examine the remains of Freeman House, near where British troops were encamped during the Battles of Saratoga. The middle portion is thought to be the original structure standing during the battles. This photograph was taken at the 151st anniversary of the first battle at Saratoga, usually referred to as the Battle at Freeman's Farm. This battle, and the following battle three weeks later, is thought to be the turning point of the war. This image was created to record the historic site activities of the New York State Conservation Department.

Identifier

NYSA_14297-87_3607

Alternate Identifier

DMS ID Number: 146928

Date

September 1928

Repository

New York State Archives

Source

New York State Archives, New York (State). Conservation Dept. Photographic prints and negatives, [ca. 1904-1949], 14297-87_3607.

Rights

This image is provided for education and research purposes. Rights may be reserved. Responsibility for securing permissions to distribute, publish, reproduce or other use rest with the user. For additional information see our Copyright and Use Statement

More From This Series

Conservation Department photographic prints and negatives

Geographic Locations

Saratoga County (is associated with)