Private Mel A. Sutton, who was seriously wounded in the battle of Jerome, has recovered from his wounds and is now back in the line. He was wounded in the battle of Jerome, which took place on June 10, 1918, and was the result of a gas attack. Sutton was one of the first to be hit by the gas, and he was taken to a hospital. He remained in the hospital for several weeks, but he was able to recover and return to his unit. He is now back in the line, and he is doing well.

Christmas Day in France, 1918

The following is a letter from a soldier in the 106th Infantry, dated Christmas Day, 1918, from France. The letter describes the soldier's experiences during the war and his feelings about Christmas.

The soldier writes that he has been in France for a long time and that he has seen many things. He describes the conditions of the war and the hardships that he and his fellow soldiers have endured. He also talks about his feelings about Christmas and how he has spent the day. The letter is a personal account of the soldier's life during the war and provides a glimpse into the experiences of the men who fought in the 106th Infantry.
