

Ancient Egypt - Metal Working (2 of 2)

A print depicting metal working in ancient Egypt. Fires are being blown by bellows, a crucible is held over the fire, and workmen are carrying tongs. Molten metal is then poured from the crucible, and a basket of fuel is emptied. This image was taken from a print from the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. The picture shows Egyptians working the fires, and also the laborers walk over heated metal on special blocks beneath their feet, (1930).

Identifier

NYSA_A3045-78_A16973

Alternate Identifier

DMS ID Number: 201

Negative Numbers: A16973

Date

1930

Contributor

The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York

Repository

New York State Archives

Source

New York State Archives, New York (State). Education Dept. Division of Visual Instruction. Instructional lantern slides, ca. 1856-1939. A3045-78, A16973.

Rights

This image is provided for education and research purposes. Rights may be reserved. Responsibility for securing permissions to distribute, publish, reproduce or other use rest with the user. For additional information see our Copyright and Use Statement

More From This Series

Division of Visual Instruction instructional lantern slides

Geographic Locations

Egypt (is associated with)