

Electronics Park, N.Y.

Aerial view of an industrial park of circa 180 acres in the town of Salina, Onondaga County. The view includes a large complex with many large low buildings connected by small roads; parking lots and a small pond can also be seen. Two roads border the site; one in the foreground appears to have a newly constructed overpass. Fields sparsely populated with farms and homes surround the park. The park was built in 1946 for General Electric and is now owned by a division of Lockheed Martin.
