

Erie Railroad Elimination, Elmira, NY

View of an active construction site alongside a railroad. Many men work on various projects; some men in suits look on. A crawler crane (Koehring) lowers construction material onto the back of a truck in the foreground; background includes several outbuildings probably part of the railroad. The project described as Public Service Commission number 3199, may relate to a railroad grade crossing elimination. The image is a construction progress photograph taken by the Dept. of Public Works, (related photograph file number 497).
