

Fort Crailo, stone loop and memorial tablet

This imposing brick structure is known as Fort Crailo. During the 18th century it acted as a headquarters for the vast Rensselaer Estate. The earliest date of residence is in 1704 by Hendrick van Rensselaer, though it may have been built in 1642 as the sign states. Its reinforced structure is a legacy of a time when Indian raids were a threat, and the hole in the stone beneath the sign is likely a gun port. According to legend, at this site in 1758 British Army surgeon Richard Shuckburgh penned the lyrics of "Yankee Doodle" to mock the Colonial Troops he saw in the area. This image was created to record the historic site activities of the New York State Conservation Department.

Identifier

NYSA_14297-87_3726

Alternate Identifier

DMS ID Number: 148498

Date

October 4 1930

Contributor

E.J. McGuirk

Repository

New York State Archives

Source

New York State Archives, New York (State). Conservation Dept. Photographic prints and negatives, [ca. 1904-1949], 14297-87_3726.

Rights

This image is provided for education and research purposes. Rights may be reserved. Responsibility for securing permissions to distribute, publish, reproduce or other use rest with the user. For additional information see our Copyright and Use Statement

More From This Series

Conservation Department photographic prints and negatives

Geographic Locations

Rensselaer (is associated with)