The image shows a photograph of an open manuscript, likely a historical record or ledger. The manuscript is laid flat, showing three pages: folio 100v on the left, folio 101r in the center, and folio 101v on the right. Folio 100v contains a list of names and dates, with some entries underlined. Folio 101r features a large, ornate initial 'C' in the center, followed by a list of names and dates. Folio 101v contains a list of names and dates, with some entries underlined. The manuscript is written in a historical script, possibly Latin or Italian, and the paper shows signs of age and wear.

This image shows a single page from a historical ledger or account book. The page is filled with handwritten entries in cursive script, organized into multiple columns. The paper is aged and yellowed, with visible binding on the left side. The entries appear to be financial or accounting records, with some headings like "Debit" and "Credit" visible. The handwriting is dense and fills most of the page.

The image shows four pages of a handwritten manuscript, likely a ledger or account book. The pages are numbered 1, 2, 3, and 4. Each page contains columns of text and numbers, with some pages having headings like "By Value of the House" and "By Value of the House". The handwriting is in cursive, and the ink is dark. The paper appears aged and slightly discolored.
